

Stern Bros.

To-morrow
15 Cases
Figured Silkoline
Comfortables
new and desirable colorings, for double beds, at $1.18

Down
Comfortables
figured silk on both sides, for double beds, $6.45
Regular value, $10.75
Japanese Hand Emb'd
Silk and Satin Down
Comfortables
for double beds, at $12.50
Reduced from $30.00

Also a large line of 10-4, 11-4 and 12-4
Blankets
at Greatly
Reduced Prices
West 23d St.

Fur-Lined Overcoats, all sizes, lined and trimmed with reliable furs, at lowest possible prices. C. C. Shayne & Co., Makers, 124 W. 42d St., Bet. 5th and 6th Ave.

HOME NEWS.

NEW-YORK CITY.

The Vegetarian Society is to meet at No. 27 West Forty-second-st., to-morrow at 8 p. m., when "Byways of Vegetarianism" will be discussed.

A lecture on "Barriers to Immortality" will be given by T. R. Prater before the Aryan Theosophical Society, No. 144 Madison-ave., this evening at 8:15 o'clock.

The Association of Principals of Girls' Grammar Schools will have the presentation of a memorial to Miss Salome Purroy at Grammar School No. 53 at 2 p. m. to-morrow, and the presentation of a memorial to Miss Letitia Matthews at Grammar School No. 50 at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

At the entertainment following the installation of the officers of John A. Dix Post No. 125, which is to be held at the Tuxedo on the evening of January 7, Miss Josephine Sable will sing "The Star-Spangled Banner," and an elaborate programme will follow.

Richard A. Boone, president of the Michigan State Normal School, will lecture before the New-York City Teachers' Association at the Normal College to-morrow at 4 p. m., on "Education and the Institutions."

The Linnean Society will meet at the Museum of Natural History on Tuesday at 8 p. m. Several interesting papers will be read.

At the annual election of the Schnorler Club of Morristown, held on Friday, the following officers for 1897 were elected: President, Henry C. Schrader; vice-president, Charles J. Haberstroh; recording and corresponding secretary, John Osborn; financial secretary, Joseph Liebertz; treasurer, Adam P. Dienst; Board of Directors, Bernard C. Murray, William Koling and Albert Behning; Finance Committee, Frederick C. Fischer, Paul G. Decker and Charles Pfleger.

Detective-Sergeant Cuff, of the District-Attorney's office, started for Denver on Friday night to bring back Henry M. Armstrong, who was arrested in that city on Friday on an indictment made here Thursday, based on a complaint made by Thomas Taylor, an old farmer of Midway, Penn., that Armstrong swindled him out of $40,000.

Rabbi Silverman addressed a large congregation yesterday morning in Temple Emanuel-Eli, Fifth-ave. and Forty-third-st., on the subject of "The Religion of Duty."

"The Prejudice Against the Jew" will be Dr.
Madison C. Peters' subject this evening at Bloomingdale Church, the Boulevard and Sixty-eighth-st.

Chief Conlin late yesterday afternoon preferred charges against Captain Sheehan for neglect of duty in failing to suppress policy-shops in his precinct. The charges were approved by Commissioner Grant, who is chairman of the Committee on Rules and Discipline, and they will come up before the Board to-morrow for its approval.

Professor John F. Weir, director of the School of Fine Arts in Yale University, delivered an illustrated lecture, entitled "A Day in Venice," at the Metropolitan Museum of Art yesterday. The professor, by means of his stereoscopic, took his audience to the Venice of to-day, and, as he showed them different places of interest, gave a historical description of each. His lecture throughout was one of intense interest, and was listened to by a select audience.

Dr. Aris Liechtenstein, of the American Mission to the Jews, announced yesterday afternoon after his sermon on "Searching the Scriptures," which was delivered to a large audience in the rooms of the Mission, No. 64 Grand-st., that at the gathering to-night in the rooms he would have something to say about Hermann Warszwawski and the action of the New-York Presbytery. Dr.
Warszwawski is at present preaching out of town.

The Charity Organization Society acknowledges with many thanks the following additional contributions in behalf of the young woman crippled by rheumatism: "A Friend" and "F. T. L. L." $25 each; "C. L. D." "J. B. J." "Mrs. B. J." "E. A. N." and "W. J." $10 each; Mrs. J. B. Gibson, "J. H. A." H. R. Wood, "A. M. S." Mrs. Remsen, Miss Fanny Remsen, Miss M. I. Remsen, "H." "S. G. N." J. F. Thompson, "H. N." "N. S. J." "R." "A fellow-sufferer" and "A. H. L." $5 each; "E. J. B." "M. A." "S. F. C." "Manhattan" and "T. D. K." $2 each. As sufficient money has now been received for this case, no further contributions will be required.

The New-York Churchman's Association will have a meeting and luncheon at Clark's, in Twenty-third-st., to-morrow.

It was reported yesterday that the German Looking Glass Plate Company, which has controlled the American market in German looking-glass plates since its organization in July, 1886, had decided to go into liquidation. None of the officers of the company could be found to confirm or deny the report.

The body of George Werner, the five-year-old son of a baker, living at No. 616 West Forty-eighth-st., was taken from the North River yesterday morning, when he was last seen playing in the street with some other children. It is supposed that he wandered down to the pier at West Forty-eighth-st. and fell into the water.

The Dwight Alumni Association held a meeting in the Carnegie Hall building last night. George Chase presided, and jury trials were discussed by those present.

A convocation of Gamma Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Society will be held at Clark's, in Twenty-third-st., to-morrow evening. Dr. Charles A. Doremus, of the class of 1870, will read a paper entitled "A Page from the Chemistry of To-day." Supper will be served.

In the year now ending 1,170 babies and 738 homeless mothers have been cared for in the New-York

Stern Bros.

Second Floor
Men's Smoking Jackets

Japanese Silk, extra full sizes, at $2.95
Regular value, $5.50
French Tricot, quilted satin lined and trimmed throughout, at $6.85
Regular value, $8.75

Best quality
Velveteen, satin trimmed, at $7.50
Regular value, $11.50
Silk Matelasse, quilted satin lined, at $12.90
Regular value, $16.50

House Coats
at $3.95 and $5.98
Regular value, $6.50 to $8.75

Men's Bath and House Gowns
at $3.85 and $4.98
Regular value, $5.50 to $7.95
West 23d St.

Forty-fourth Season. F. BOOSS & BRO., Importers and Makers of FINE FURS.

Sealskin
Garments
a specialty.

Novelty in
BLUE FOX,
CHINCHILLA, AND SABLES.

A full line of RUGS
FOR HOLIDAY PRESENTS.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY FURNISHED OF COST OF REPAIRING AND REMODELING INTO LATEST DESIGNS.

F. BOOSS & BRO.,

449 BROADWAY. 26 MERCER ST.
Grand St. Station, Four doors below Grand St.
Telephone 2000, Spring.
Catalogues Mailed on Application.

Foundling Asylum, at No. 175 East Sixty-eighth-st., between Third and Lexington aves. Receptions will be held at the institution from 2 to 4 p. m. on December 29 and 30, when it is hoped that liberal contributions of money, food, toys, etc., will be received.

MR. PAVEY ON PRIMARIES.

LAW, HE SAYS, MAY BE PASSED TO REMEDY EXISTING ABUSES.

State Senator Frank D. Pavey addressed the Woman's League for Political Education yesterday at No. 23 West Forty-fourth-st. Mrs. H. M. Sanders, president of the league, presided at the meeting, which was largely attended. The subject of Senator Pavey's address was "Legislative Control of Political Primaries and Conventions."

"There is," said Mr. Pavey, "a demand for a general law on primaries, caucuses and conventions, so that the judges may have something to rely upon in giving their opinions on contests. An effort will doubtless be made at the next Legislature to secure further legislation upon this subject, and some conservative measure containing amendments to the law will be passed."

Senator Pavey said that some extremists had gone so far as to ask that the State take control of all primaries and conventions, and that a special primary day should be established, and that all political parties should hold their primaries on that day.

The speaker then explained to his hearers about the chief evils to be found at primaries. The party managers, he said, under the present law had power to strike the names of voters off the enrollment list. "Another evil," he said, "is padding the rolls. That means that men who are not members of a political organization are allowed to enroll their names on the party rolls in order to secure their support for the party managers at the primaries. It has often happened, too, that members of the organization long since dead have had their names carried for years on the enrollment list, while somebody would appear at the primaries and vote in their name."

The proposed legislation, Senator Pavey declared, would try to remedy all these evils. It would suggest that no voter should be compelled to reveal the ticket he voted at the last election, and that no name should be stricken from the rolls unless the person got seven days' notice that such action was going to be taken at a general meeting of the organization, every member of which must also have seven days' notice.

A BURGLAR-CHASE IN A CROWD.

Henry J. Bridger, a jeweller, of No. 478 Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company that there was a strange man in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hallway, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to hand him over to the police. The man ran out into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

the burglar was seen to enter a building at No. 478
Fulton-st., Brooklyn, in the heart of the drygoods district, at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was
told by a switchman of the Brooklyn Heights
Railroad Company that there was a strange man
in his cellar. The switchman guarded the hall-
way, while Bridger went into the cellar. He asked
the man what he wanted, and was told he was there to fix electric wires. Bridger threatened to
hand him over to the police. The man ran out
into Fulton-st., which was thronged with Christmas shoppers, with Bridger after him, crying,
"Stop, thief!" A large number of people joined in
the chase, which lasted about eight blocks, when

Stern Bros.

Special Values in Ladies'
Mackintoshes
and English
Showerproofs

with golf or double capes,
of Cheviots, Cashmeres,
Serges, Cravenettes at and Mixtures, lined with Scotch plaids
and stripes,
Put up in fancy boxes for Holiday Gifts
$3.95
$4.50
$5.75
$8.50
$11.50

West 23d St.

Brentano's
Stationery Department.

MONOGRAMS,
ADDRESS DISS.,
STAMPING OF PAPER,
ILLUSTRATING,
EMBOSSING,
ENGRAVING,
ALL WORK EXECUTED
IN CORRECT PORTFOLIOS, STYLE AND IN BEST BRONZES, MANNER.
DELIVERED WHEN CARD CASES PROMISED.

The most complete stock of Burnt Leather Goods in the city at special prices for Xmas.

All Stationery and Engraving at Lower Prices than prevail elsewhere for same quality of work.

BRENTANO'S,
Correspondence 31 Union Sq., Invited. N. Y.

WATERS
PIANOS

An elegant new, 7 1/2 octave, 3-stringed WATERS UPRIGHT PIANO, fine tone and all improvements, only

$225 cash, or $250 on instalments, payable $10 down and

$7 MONTHLY.

Stool, cover, tuning and delivery free. Old pianos taken in part payment for new ones.

Second-hand pianos at great bargains and on payments of only $5 per month. Send postal for catalogue with reduced prices and terms.

HORACE WATERS & CO.,

134 Fifth Ave., near 18th St.
OPEN EVENINGS.

he was arrested. He was looked up in the Tenth Precinct station. He gave his name as Joseph Andrews, of No. 38 Nassau-st., Brooklyn.

CUT HIS THROAT WITH A RAZOR.

Joseph Jones, thirty-six years old, a carpenter, who lived with a married daughter at No. 230 East Eighty-fourth-st., tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone in the house and took her little girl out. When she returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his grandfather's room. The child ran back to her mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon
by cutting his throat with a razor in his bedroom.
A month ago yesterday his wife died, after being ill
for two years. They had been married thirty-two years, and her death was a great blow to him.

Yesterday afternoon his daughter left him alone
in the house and took her little girl out. When she
returned at 5:30 o'clock she sent the child to his
grandfather's room. The child ran back to her
mother, tried to kill himself yesterday afternoon by cutting his throat with a